SOME OF TODAY'S LETTERS

MERCURY ON FACE OF SUN ON THURSDAY

Little Planet Will Be Directly Between the Earth and Old Sol.

FIRST TIME IN 13 YEARS

Look for Mercury to appear to-morrow
When the sun comes to to-morrow morning, the little planet will be directly between the earth and the sun for the first time in thirteen years and for the last time in seven years.

If the day is pleasant and you are armed with a pair of smoked glass, a field glass or a telescope, you may see the little star pass across the face of the sun.

It will be barely visible through the smoked glass, for Mercury is the smallest of the planets, and it will be 50,000,000 miles away from the earth.

At the time of the transit in comparison with the sun may be had from the fact that Mercury, as you can see it to-morrow, is 1,250,000 miles from the earth.

Passes into Line of Vision at 5:24.
Mercury is the closest planet to the sun and is 36,000,000 miles away from the earth. It goes around the sun every eighty-eight days, while it takes the earth 365 days.

At 5:24 it will be in the line of vision of the sun—that is, it will begin to pass into the line of vision of the sun at 5:24 and will be completely out at 5:30.

How to See Mercury.
If you have a telescope, you can see it with a solar eyepiece to protect the eye from the glare, or you can see Mercury, or you can use a pair of smoked glasses or even glasses and place a piece of white paper back of the eye for protection. In either case the sun will appear as a disk in the distance.
Mercury will appear as a dot on the surface of the sun.

THOUSANDS HAVE TROUBLE AND DON'T KNOW IT

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease, therefore, when through neglect or other cause kidney trouble is permitted to continue, serious results are sure to follow.

Your other organs may need attention—but your kidneys most, because they do most and should have attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys begin to get better they will help all the other organs to health.

Prevalence of Kidney Disease.
Most people do not realize the alarmingly increase and remarkable prevalence of kidney disease. While kidney disorders are the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patient or physician, who content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the poisonous disease undermines the system.

When mild and incontinent effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, is soon realized.
It stands the highest for its remarkable cures in the most distressing cases.

Symptoms of Kidney Trouble.
Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything, but if you are obliged to pass your water frequently night and day, smarting or irritating in every bottle.

TO BE HANGED FRIDAY FOR GIRL'S MURDER

Young Farm Hand Found Guilty of Slaying Housekeeper for Priest.

HE HAS HAD TWO TRIALS

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Nov. 12.—Thomson P. Collins, a young Irishman, who came to New Brunswick early last summer, is to be hanged here on Friday for the murder of Miss Mary Ann McKeay, housekeeper for the late Rev. Father Mc-Keay, in August.

Collins was a farmhand in the employ of Father McKeay and committed the crime when the priest was away from home.

Collins was tried twice and convicted each time. He denies his guilt, but when he was arrested admitted that he had killed the priest.

A few weeks ago a petition was sent to the governor of Canada asking that Collins' sentence be commuted to imprisonment for life, but the governor declined to change the sentence of death.

There are five in this county who believe that Collins is innocent, but there is no one who believes that Collins is innocent. Collins' wife, who lives in New Brunswick, has declared that she will not participate in the execution of Collins.

Let the Churches of America Stop the Cruelty of the Rich Toward Domestic Animals and Pets
By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

ON the other side of the Atlantic, the following papers and reports are the result of the cruel crimes committed by the churches of America. These reports represent the well-to-do, and often wealthy, from the cities, who own or rent a house, and who bring their children and domestic pets down for the summer season. When they do not own dogs or cats to bring, they procure them after arrival, saying: "My children are so devoted to animals."

Now, in one report I am told that fully fifteen of these "adorable" cats and kittens are wandering in the streets, dying with the slow tortures of hunger and homelessness, since the Christian residents of the Summer colony departed and left them.

It is heartrending to think of all the money expended that keeps our churches, Sunday schools and foreign and home missions in the land, and of the appalling lack of humanity and kindness which exists among our educated and wealthy people.

Churches Ought to Help
Why do the churches neglect this point so persistently?

Why do they not make a crusade against this awful cruelty to the helpless creatures of earth, and devote a Sunday every last week in August to talking on the subject of the provision of homes for animals?

It is to be feared more than to send an animal to the S. P. C. A. for a merciful death than to leave it to hunt for living in cold and hunger and to die of starvation and exposure.

It is far more important to the future of our country, as a moral and progressive, than that the churches should be so concerned for the welfare of the domestic animals. They do not show their appreciation of human companionship and love as dogs do, but they feel it nevertheless.

Beside their physical miseries, they suffer acutely of loneliness and neglect, which is more to them than any other misfortune. They are devoted to those who have reared them, and they are often the only friends they have.

PEOPLE MUST BE BIG TO BE IN FASHION

Russian Sable Cape and Muff
The graph of charming Russian sable cape and muff is a striking idea of the prevailing style of the new season.

The bigger and heavier furs are the more stylish. Capes are bigger and thicker and wraps are longer than ever.

Finally the man is obliging and complacent with her wish. He cannot deny it by the term love.

I cannot jump to the conclusion that a man is in love with you when he seeks your company. He probably finds you a very charming girl, but that is a far cry from being in love.

Many a very pleasant friendship has been named in the end because the girl was taking things too seriously.

Girl's Own Fault
The girl sees the man, and if he encourages things to grow too fast and furious she has only herself to blame because the inevitable result comes.

Then the poor child thinks her heart is broken and that there is nothing to be done.

In reality, it is more her pride than her heart that is injured.

Summer by the sea, moonlight bathing, and the girl's heart is so great that she does with a faint smile.

It is very easy for young people to mistake the mere togetherness of a romantic condition for love.

But when the girl is so sure of the man's mind, she is sure to be disappointed when the moon's dim rays make rather pale in the bright light of the sun.

The moon is so sure to be disappointed when the moon's dim rays make rather pale in the bright light of the sun.

Don't Think Every Man Who Is Polite to You is in Love

By Beatrice Fairfax

DON'T mistake a man's attentions for serious intentions. A man who is polite to you is not necessarily in love with you.

Then the girl, after a brief period of happiness, discovers that he is not the right man after all.

He can give her all the love she needs, and he is glad that things did not actually break down.

Of course, it is very easy to drift into a friendship, but it is not so easy to drift into a love.

When you allow a man to make love to you, you will not draw back, but I can assure you, girls, that you would not want to be in his shoes.

Men Friends Good
A friendship with a man is a very good thing for a girl, as it gives her all the love she needs.

Very often a friendship that might be a love affair, is a love affair, and it is a good thing for a girl to have a friend who is a man.

It is not a friendship that might be a love affair, and it is a good thing for a girl to have a friend who is a man.

This is the day when the riders at the Park Square track will be getting their second wind, which means that something has got to look and feel like a big race between the half-pint riders for breaking up the ranks and getting that much desired top which would make it a big day for leading men in the end.

For two days the riders have been fighting it out in the mud and making vigorous attempts to lead a lap and the ending of the second day was about full of excitement, but it will take away in comparison to the third day when the riders will be in the thick of the fight.

All the members of the different teams are keeping up their courage by cheering each other, as they know that the real battle is yet to come, when nothing but their grit and sliding powers will pull them through.

One team was killed off yesterday and there are now ten pairs to go the limit. If they can maintain the grueling, if they can all manage to hang on during the day there is some hope for reaching the finish through the week. But the pace is beginning to show its effects in more ways than one. The men refuse to show any weakness, as it would betray them to their opponents. In the saddle they are nervous, and in the finish they are in a state of nerves.

Of the two teams, eight are at the top, one is in the middle, and the other is in the bottom. The men are in a state of nerves, and the riders are in a state of nerves. The riders are in a state of nerves, and the riders are in a state of nerves.

The finishing hours of the second day were filled with exciting episodes and the big crowd around the saucer track was full of cheering and shouting. The riders were in a state of nerves, and the riders were in a state of nerves.

Why Coulthurst's Primary Vote Will Be Light

Only New Voters and Voters Who Have Not Taken Part in Caucuses Within Three Years Are Eligible to Vote the League Ticket

Three years ago, when the caucus enrollment law went into effect, there were only two parties. Therefore the Democrats and Republicans divided the vote of the city of Boston.

To secure an enrolled list of voters for the Independence League it is necessary for those who desire to change their party to lose half a day from their work in order to visit the office of the Election Commission between the hours of 9 in the morning and 5 in the afternoon, night sessions for enrollment having been denied by the Election Board.

The vote, therefore, in the Independence League primaries to-morrow will necessarily be very light. The only persons who are entitled to vote in these primaries are those who changed their party enrollment more than three months ago, and new voters who have not taken part in a caucus in the last three years.

All new voters and all persons who have not taken part in caucuses within the last three years are eligible to go into the Independence League primaries to-morrow and vote for John A. Coulthurst for Mayor.

The official of the League in the Old South Building have received information that an attempt will be made to-morrow by Mayor Fitzgerald to nominate himself or a dummy candidate in the primaries of the Independence League.

It is hardly conceivable that a man who asks the citizens of Boston to elect him Mayor would stoop to such a trick.

The Man Who Watches the Dog Fight

His Interest Is Natural, but It Ought to Be More Intelligently Directed

On the street two dogs, after eyeing each other with distrust and suspicion, decide to fight.

To them this is the only way of settling the important question of which is the better dog. If they happen to be able, self-respecting dogs, each with grit and confidence in his own powers, they continue to fight till the question is settled for all time.

If they are ordinary dogs, which are very like ordinary human beings, they satisfy their honor with a few bites, and retire growling ferociously, which is easier and SAFER than fighting.

Whenever these two unreasoning creatures fight in the vicinity of the vastly superior men, you will see most of the latter leave their business or pursuits and watch them.

A dog fight will collect a crowd sooner than a fire, and keep it collected longer.

And among the lords of creation, each supplied with a mind and a soul, there is usually a howl of disappointed fury when a policeman comes along and separates the growling and snapping and half-mad animals.

Human interest in a dog fight, a bull fight, a fire or any other evidence of TROUBLE is so natural that you have probably never stopped to inquire the reason for it.

You may think that a fire interests you because it is a beautiful spectacle; but it doesn't. You may imagine that your impulse to push through the crowd and watch two dogs rending each other's sides comes from delight in a contest of skill. That is not the reason.

Anything unusual, especially any manifestation of rage or anger, will divert your attention, unless you have learned to get excited about something important.

A man who would rise from the centre of an audience at a big theatre and begin shouting at the chandeliers would attract a hundred times as much attention as could the most brilliant actor in the most thrilling scene of a tragedy.

If it were generally known that on a certain day, at a certain hour, two railroad trains would collide on a local railroad, thousands of people who cannot afford the time would be there to watch.

The drunken man on the street, if he is threatening trouble, will be followed by a curious throng. A subway guard ejecting a passenger draws a bigger crowd than a bulletin board with the returns of a ball game.

Human nature craves EXCITEMENT. The lives of most men and women seem to them dreary, monotonous affairs—the same three meals a day, the same ride to work and back again, the same routine at home or in the office or shop.

The crowd about the dog fight or as near the fire lines as the police will permit is a TIRED crowd—tired of doing the old things over in the old way.

The snarling dogs or the thick black smoke promises excitement, and excitement is something which makes a man forget himself and for a few minutes think a little harder than usual about something new.

Since we began to call ourselves civilized many men have thought very earnestly about the importance of getting other men excited.

Books about battles, and detectives, and hunting, and crime have been written for people who have no excitement in their own lives.

Melodramas and tragedies, which are exciting plays, supply worldly-weary audiences with an artificial mental stimulus. In Spain bull fights and cock mains are held to please lovers of excitement, and in this country prize fights serve the same purpose.

But excitement thus aroused is BRUTAL excitement. It stirs only the animal part of a man, infaming his passions and affecting his mind in very much the same way that whiskey affects the tissues of his brain.

The great school teachers of the future will learn to employ this human desire more intelligently—to get their pupils excited about something useful.

It is hard to imagine a man in a chemical laboratory, far removed from fight and fires and quarrels and collisions, getting excited about anything, but in such places the highest and most valuable form of excitement is developed.

The chemist, hard on the trail of some wonderful new discovery that is destined to revolutionize an industry, thrills with it.

The astronomer "when a new planet swims into his ken" can get ten times as excited as the spectator at a dog fight. When Mr. Marconi first heard the sound of a message coming THROUGH THE AIR to his instrument he was undoubtedly the most excited man in the world.

Those who really accomplish anything—who make their lives count—can GET JUST AS EXCITED ABOUT THEIR WORK AS OTHER MEN CAN ABOUT A GAME OR A FIGHT.

IT IS THE EXCITEMENT of a political campaign that opens the eyes of some of the people to what is really going on.

It is the excitement of a battle that makes men do miracles of bravery who, unexcited, might prove afraid of their own shadows.

If the youth who shouts his lungs inside out at a football game can become equally excited when he is about his work he will have little trouble about succeeding.

The tendency of men to gather around the dog fight does not prove that men are the mental equal of the dogs who do the fighting. It shows that they merely are misusing their capacity for excitement and allowing an impulse to make brutes of them, which intelligently directed might make them great or successful men.
